Dear Ms. Riley:

Colombo Yogurt is, quite simply, the best yogurt there is--and I have tried them all.

Allow a faithful customer to bring to your attention a labeling error on one of your yogurt containers, namely, the eight-ounce size Peach Melba Yogurt. The problem: the flavors are reversed.

Dame Nellie Melba, after whom the dessert in question was named, was very fond of peaches and raspberries. The chef who created Peach Melba--and thereby titillated the tastebuds of the divine Dame Nellie (and of millions of grateful epicures down through the ages)--brought into existence a dessert that consists of a peach half over which raspberry puree is ladled. The primary flavor is that of the peach, the secondary flavor is that of the raspberry.

Colombo Peach Melba Yogurt should, therefore, have raspberry puree in the bottom of the container and peach yogurt in the body of the container and not, alack the day, peach flavoring in the bottom of the container and raspberry yogurt in the body of the container.

Devotedly,

Robert Powell

This Colombo yogurt letter surfaced again. I may have posted it down already, but just in case I have not, here it is again. Obviously, the letter amuses me greatly and that is why I have included it here.

RJT telephoned at 9 AM -- Vince

Delatta wanted to measure window.

I agreed to meet them at City Hall at noon. I was and have been, very tired for the past few days, and so I was not anxious to spring from my bed and fly down to City Hall. I did, however, get up and did some preliminary organizing at my desk. I caught up on my "stabilization" notes and did telephone Mr. Luge and Karen Pollock at the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts about the $3,500 matching grant. I wanted them to know that the $3,500 has not been finally approved by Council of the Mayor in the 1984 budget. Karen Pollock explained that they will proceed as if it has been included. If it has not been included in the final budget for
